

Classification & Labelling CLP course

Date and place

September 7th and 8th, Rotterdam, The Netherlands.

Overview

Day 1: A practical introduction to CLP and the impact for your company.

Day 2: A workshop classification and labelling according to CLP.

Each day can be followed separately. Both days are aimed at professionals dealing with the implementation of CLP within companies. The first day is also intended for managers who would like to get a grasp on what CLP means for their company, enabling their company to implement CLP.

English spoken.

Topics day 1

- Regulatory framework
- Transitional periods
- Need-to-know facts about classification*
- Rules for labels
- Safety Data Sheets & CLP
- Relation of CLP to other regulations (GHS!)
- Communication
- Education of employees
- Notification of Classification and Labelling to the ECHA.

*This first day does not include detail about how to practically classify chemicals: this is dealt with during the second day.

Topics day 2

- Classification methods
- Practical exercises for classification and labelling of substances
- Practical exercises for classification and labelling of mixtures

The workshop classification and labelling according to CLP is only one day long, offering you the best value for money. It is advised that participants have some prior experience in classification (e.g. according to the Directives 67/548/EEC and 1999/45/EC) to benefit optimally from this high information density programme.

Pricing

Both days: € 1.400,- (excluding VAT)

Day 1 or day 2: € 850,- (excluding VAT)

Includes materials, lunch and refreshments.

Trainers

Caroline Coucke and Conny Hoekzema.

Caroline and Conny work at Royal Haskoning as chemicals management consultants. They deal with classification, labelling and chemicals management systems as well as Safety Data Sheets and related regulations in practice every day. They are both enthusiastic teachers, with ample experience teaching chemical regulatory subjects.

World harbour city Rotterdam is 25 minutes by fast train from Schiphol airport. The Thalys from Paris and Brussels also connects Rotterdam (or travel via Rotterdam airport!).
